Appendix 1: Search protocol

1. Search strategy

To find all CPGs developed or endorsed by Swiss medical societies, a broad search is performed. It includes four pillars: A PubMed and OVID database search, an archive search in Swiss medical journals, a hand search on medical societies' websites and extraction of documents available on the platform guidelines.fmh.ch.

Results from PubMed and journal archives are transformed into a Microsoft Excel spreadsheet using web scraping software. OVID results are downloaded as an Excel file. Medical societies websites and platform/survey results are inserted into the spreadsheet manually by one author (LB). The spreadsheet includes title, abstract/lead (if available), authors (if available) and publication source. For full text screening and data extraction all positively screened items are listed in a new spreadsheet and the corresponding PDF file are downloaded where not yet available.

1.1. PubMed

Results are displayed with the options "Format: Abstract" and "Per page: 200". The results are imported into Excel for title/abstract screening using web scraping software.

Search query

(((((schweiz*[Title] OR swiss[Title] OR switzerland[Title] OR suisse[Title] OR svizzer*[Title] OR switzerland[MeSH Terms]) AND (guideline*[Title] OR leitlinie*[Title] OR richtlinie*[Title] OR empfehlung[Title] OR konsens[Title] OR recommendation*[Title] OR consensus[Title] OR directive*[Title] OR ligne directrice[Title] OR lignes directrices[Title] OR recommandation*[Title] OR guid*[Title] OR linea guida[Title] OR linee guide[Title] OR direttiv*[Title] OR consenso[Title] OR accordo[Title] OR raccomandazione[Title] OR (clinical practice guideline[MeSH Terms]) OR (practice guidelines as topic[MeSH Terms]))))))))
```

Filters

- Publication date: from 2008/01/01

1.2. OVID

All available sources in OVID are searched. Results are displayed with the option “100 per page”. Each page is exported to Excel using the option provided by the site.

Search query

(Switzerland.sh. or (schweiz* or swiss or switzerland* or svizzer* or suisse).ti.) and ((guideline* or leitlinie* or richtlinie* or empfehlung/ or konsens or recommendation* or consensus or directive* or ligne directrice or lignes directives or recommandation* or guid* or linea guida or linee guide or direttiv* or consenso or accordo or raccomandazione).ti. or practice guidelines.sh.)

1.4. Medical societies' websites

Sources

Societies websites listed by FMH

- Websites of all Swiss national medical societies listed by FMH on one of the following three webpages:

- https://www.fmh.ch/ueber_fmh/aerzteorganisationen/fachgesellschaften/medizinisch_fachgesellschaften.html
- https://www.fmh.ch/ueber_fmh/aerzteorganisationen/fachgesellschaften/schwerpunkte.html

List of working groups and NGOs

Websites of working groups and NGOs mentioned in the list below. This list was put together during a preliminary web search on 14.-15.04.2018 and discussion between the study authors (LB, AU, HD) and an external expert (Stefanie Hostettler), having in mind all healthcare services related NGOs and working groups in Switzerland that could potentially have published clinical practice guidelines. During the web search societies' websites (see above) were hand searched for links to working groups and NGOs relevant to the respective speciality.

Identifying CPGs on websites

CPG key words are defined above.

Website links key words are: guideline, quality, documents, links (in the primary language of the respective website).

Instructions:

1. On the home page look for documents titled or described by any of the CPG key words.
2. If the website has a search bar, search for all the link key words and open all pages in the results list (except for PDF files).
3. If the website has a menu bar, follow links containing any of the link or CPG key words. If necessary, iterate over this step until the hierarchy of the menu is no longer expandable. If the first level of the menu bar does not contain any key words open all first level menu points to examine the second level.
4. On all the pages opened in 2 & 3, look for documents titled or described by any of the CPG key words. General links to collections of CPGs produced by another organisation are ignored, unless it is stated that this organisation endorses all the CPGs in the collection. However, if the link provides information unknown to the study team, the corresponding organisation is examined as a candidate for inclusion in the list of medical societies.
5. Additionally, an unstructured hand search on societies websites is performed.
6. Once potential CPG documents are found they are downloaded as PDFs and stored locally in a folder representing their website of origin.

Potential CPGs may be either available for download directly on the webpage, via a link to an external site or listed by title. External links are followed until the respective document can be obtained. If a CPG is listed by title, the corresponding document is obtained by a PubMed or Google search.

1.5. FMH platform and survey

Documents available on the platform guidelines.fmh.ch are retrieved by one author (LB). Entries without link to a guideline document are ignored. A list of newly submitted guidelines is provided to the study team by "Schweizerische Akademie für Qualität in der Medizin" (SAQM).
